Occitanie must-dos, stage by stage

The 21-day Tour de France will spend 8 days in Occitanie, proving how important our region is to race organisers. This is a destination that's not just famous for the legendary Pyrenean mountain passes; the beautiful and diverse landscapes the race runs through are just as iconic.

IN LOZERE

LOZERE, THE ULTIMATE NATURAL DESTINATION

If you love nature and the great outdoors then Lozere is the place to be! It's hiking heaven: the Via Podiensis (Santiago de Compostela path), a section of which is listed as UNESCO World Heritage, runs in and out of the region. It's also home to the Stevenson Trail whose myriad landscapes you can drink with a donkey if you so desire! Calling all cyclists: Lozere has just been named a "Territoire Vélo" (Cycling Region) by the French Cycling Tourism Federation. Mountain bikers can hit the GTMC (Grande Traversée du Massif Central). One of the sections has been approved by "Vélo et Fromage" meaning you can pair the joy of cycling and experiencing local traditions with sampling local cheese.

LOZERE, AN AUTHENTIC AND TRADITIONAL DESTINATION

Lozere is a land of legends: one of them is the Beast of Gevaudan, a terrifying creature who killed a hundred people and was the talk of town in 1764. The wonderfully unspoilt area plays host to the Cevennes National Park (the only French national park with a residential centre) and Aubrac Regional Nature Park whose sprawling plateaus dotted with lakes are reminiscent of the Highlands. Three of the "Most Beautiful Villages in France" (Sainte-Enimie, La Garde Guérin and La Malzieu-Ville) call Lozere home. Further south, the Causses & Cevennes area has UNESCO status for its agro-pastoralism and landscapes.

LOZERE, A PLACE TO LIVE LIFE AND LOVE FOOD

Lozere is undoubtedly a gourmet destination. Just take Aubrac where you can stop in a buron (traditional farm) and tuck into some delicious sausage and aligot (rich cheesy mash). Local ingredients reign supreme here and local suppliers bring their premium produce to chefs to concoct dishes and give you an incredible foodie experience. Mountain honey, Cevennes chestnuts, sheep's milk ice cream. Enjoy!

"WFH" ACCOMMODATION FOR REMOTE WORKING

If you want to experience community life in Lozere, stay in one of the many hostels or B&Bs along the paths and trails for cycling, hiking, horse riding and more. If you're not pushed for time, there's nothing better than a holiday rental to completely switch off. If you're a remote worker, Lozere has approved "WFH accommodation" so you can keep your finger on the pulse then get away from it all at the end of the day.

How do you fancy canoeing, kayaking or paddling down the Gorges du Tarn? Or would you prefer climbing, via ferrata, horse riding or climbing? Take your pick and get active in a paradise setting in Lozere. During your outings, you may well bump into cows, wild horses (Przewalski), vultures, beavers, bison and wolves (in semi-captivity). Look up when night falls! The Cevennes is an approved International Dark Sky Reserve... you'll have stars in your eyes! www.en.lozere-tourisme.com/incontournables in Foix. Cathar spirit still reigns over the "fortress of vertigo" that is Montségur. Gaze at opulent Renaissance paintings. Soak up the terrace and French lifestyle in Mirepoix.
